For Immediate Release:

With the average wedding cost creeping past the $26,000 mark, brides and grooms need all the help they can get these days. As Crystal and Jason Melendez describe in their contemporary wedding guide e-Plan Your Wedding: How to Save Time and Money with Today's Best Online Resources, that help just happens to be on the horizon. The Internet is revolutionizing how we work, play, and—yes—plan weddings. This very concise and comprehensive guide explains and demonstrates how the online bridal market boom has created shortcuts, discount bargains and new planning tools for those who know how to find and use them. If you want to take advantage of every time- and cost-saving resource available while planning your own wedding, this book will guide you along from start to finish. It's a refreshing change of pace from everyday planning advice stuck in the rut of yesteryear.
